Jorn Vos started his professional career in the financial industry 22 years ago. After his university years he started as a business consultant at Alveo (Asset Control). Soon after he moved to the more commercial side and became international sales director. In that role he was responsible for growing the business internationally. Working in the EDM and Risk space in Europe and NY, gave him the international experience and feel for the market.

His love for new technologies, start-ups and market trends brought him to SIX where he is building strategic alliances and bridges between SIX, partners and clients. Today's challenge is ESG where SIX is playing a major role as enabler to accelerate the sustainability shift in a timely and efficient way.
