Information

On 25 July 2011 we informed you that SIX Swiss Exchange provides the market makers in the Swiss franc and international bonds segments with additional capacity free of charge for one year and on 2 April 2012 that the order books in equities were being upgraded to the new “X-stream INET” technology.

SIX Swiss Exchange is currently reviewing whether also to upgrade the order books in Swiss francs and international bonds to the new technology. As part of this upgrade not only the interfaces but among other things also the capacity and market models are to be reviewed.

SIX Swiss Exchange has therefore decided to extend the deadline for the additional free capacity in bonds until the migration of the bonds to the new technology (planned for 2013).

Failing notification to the contrary, the capacity in bonds allocated to the market makers (as at 31 July 2012) will be retained.
