Usage Agreement CONNEXOR® Distribution

between

SIX Exfeed AG
Selnaustrasse 30
8001 Zurich
(hereinafter referred to as "SIX Exfeed")

and

(hereinafter referred to as the "contracting party")

1 Purpose

The CONNEXOR® Distribution Usage Agreement and the CONNEXOR® Distribution Provisions define the requirements and conditions for using the services provided in connection with CONNEXOR® Distribution.

CONNEXOR® Distribution allows information relating to various financial instruments to be efficiently entered, validated and transmitted in a standardised manner. Based on specific instructions associated with the data transmission, the data is forwarded to the required data recipients. Linked to this and based on specific instructions from the contracting party, additional services that are not directly offered by SIX Exfeed (e.g. opening the security at SIX Financial Information AG or instructing payments at SIX SIS AG) can be accessed.

If required by the issuer, reference data can be made available via the central interface of CONNEXOR® Distribution to national and international data vendors, CSDs, stock exchanges and a wide range of sub-vendors.

The CONNEXOR® Distribution Usage Agreement does not cover applications for provisional admission to trading within the meaning of the Listing Rules (LR) and other provisions of SIX Exchange Regulation; these must be transmitted to SIX Swiss Exchange AG pursuant to the CONNEXOR® Listing Usage Agreement.

This user is responsible for entering and managing all other users.

4 Transmission by authorised third parties

The contracting party authorises one or more third parties to enter, validate and transmit the information on his/her behalf.

No

If yes, please list the names, address and location of the authorised third party/parties in Annex 2 "Authorised third parties". The contracting party is obliged to notify all changes to SIX Exfeed by submitting a new version of Annex 2 "Authorised third parties". The current version of Annex 2 "Authorised third parties" is binding for both parties.

5 Scope of the information transmitted

Information can be transmitted in the form of files or documents.

A file is classed as information that is machine-readable using normal means (such as XML files, TXT files, CSV files) while the information contained in a document is not machine-readable and cannot be processed using normal means (such as Word or PDF format).

The scope of the files transmitted by the contracting party depends on the current Internet Based Terms Batch-Upload File Specification published on the www.six-swiss-exchange.com/ibt website. Sales restrictions for a financial instrument can be included in the files using the technical options available.

The contracting party agrees that all information supplied in connection with CONNEXOR® Distribution is stored and processed electronically at SIX Exfeed.

6 Forwarding and commercial use of the information transmitted

SIX Exfeed is authorised to transmit information to third parties that has been entered in CONNEXOR or transmitted to CONNEXOR, whereas the technical restrictions (free selection of the direct recipients) applicable to the non-exchange-traded financial instruments and documents (see point 5 above) are available and can be used by the contracting party.

Third parties are defined in particular as parties offering services in the area of information transmission, core-data management (vendors and sub-vendors) and/or processing (Central Security Depositories); stock exchanges and trading facilities; government organisations and authorities that perform essential functions in the issuance process and core-data maintenance for financial instruments; banks and other companies active in the financial sector.

SIX Exfeed forwards all information transmitted within the scope of CONNEXOR® Distribution in an unchanged manner unless an adjustment or addition appears necessary in order to support new versions of the data interface or for other technical reasons.

When forwarding information, SIX Exfeed will ensure that the contracting party as the author of the information is rendered anonymous. When forwarding information to distributors, the liability of the supplier/author of the information supplied is excluded pursuant to the applicable version of the Data Distribution Agreement between SIX Exfeed and the distributors.

The contracting party consents to the transmission of information in accordance with the Swiss Data Protection Act.

SIX Exfeed can order the temporary or indefinite discontinuation of the transmission of information made available by the contracting party if SIX Exfeed believes that orderly trading can no longer be guaranteed and/or orderly issuing and market making activity will be significantly impacted by the transmission of this information.

All third-party rights remain reserved.

SIX Exfeed may use all transmitted information for commercial purposes and reserves the right to assign this right in full or in part to companies directly or indirectly controlled by SIX Group AG. The contracting party agrees that the information will be used for commercial purposes and distributed in accordance with this agreement.

7 Right to use the data model

SIX Exfeed accords the contracting party a non-exclusive, non-transferrable right to use the CONNEXOR® Distribution data model free of charge. For this purpose, the contracting party receives information about the data model as well as technical specifications. This includes the following documentation in particular:

- Whitebook (description of the input data model)
- Construction standards (validation rules for each product type)
- ERD (Entity Relationship Diagram)

The right of use is extended to the contracting party and to all group companies of the contracting party (the parent company of the group as well as all group companies controlled by the parent company in which the parent company directly or indirectly holds more than 50% of the shares and voting rights). The contracting party is responsible for the actions of these group companies in the same manner as it is for its own actions.

The right of use is restricted to the use of CONNEXOR® Distribution and any other means that do not compete directly or indirectly with the CONNEXOR services.

8 Costs

The contracting party shall pay SIX Exfeed a fee for the entry, validation and transmission of information via CONNEXOR® Distribution. Details are set out in the CONNEXOR® Distribution Provisions.

The contracting party is entitled to access its own information that it has transmitted to CONNEXOR free of charge from SIX Exfeed.

The contracting party shall bear the costs of establishing the connection with CONNEXOR.

9 Termination

The CONNEXOR® Distribution service (the CONNEXOR® Distribution Usage Agreement including annexes and the CONNEXOR® Distribution Provisions) may be terminated by the contracting party or SIX Exfeed by means of a registered letter with a 30 days' notice period as per the end of a calendar month. In the case of changes to the CONNEXOR® Distribution Provisions pursuant to point 13 of the CONNEXOR® Distribution Provisions hereafter, the agreement may only be terminated at the latest up to 10 days before the change enters into force effective as per the date on which the change enters into force.

10 Liability

The contracting party acknowledges that it shall assume the risks involved in transmitting information from the contracting party to CONNEXOR and back to the contracting party. Neither party is liable to the other for damages arising from transmission errors, operating break-downs, technical defects, interruptions or third-party interventions in the information transmission mechanisms. Also excluded is any and all liability for damages due to breakdowns, interruptions (including system-related maintenance work) or overloads in CONNEXOR.

The transactions carried out on CONNEXOR as recorded electronically or by way of a computer printout are considered binding by SIX Exfeed.

The contracting party assumes no liability for the accuracy, completeness or timeliness of the information that has been transmitted to SIX Exfeed. SIX Exfeed similarly assumes no liability for the accuracy, completeness or timeliness of the information transmitted to third parties.

SIX Exfeed accepts no liability for damages incurred by the contracting party arising from incomplete fulfilment or non-fulfilment of contractual obligations or for indirect or consequential damages, such as a loss of profit or third party claims.

If a security risk is detected, SIX Exfeed reserves the right to interrupt its services for its own protection or for the protection of the contracting party at any time and to discontinue them until the risk is eliminated. SIX Exfeed accepts no liability for any damages arising from such interruptions.

The contracting party accepts no responsibility for the use of the information transmitted. All liability for damages caused by the use of information made available (including in cases of transmitting information that is incorrect and/or incomplete) shall be excluded within the legally permissible scope.

Furthermore, SIX Exfeed is not liable for slight or moderate negligence.

11 Cession

SIX Exfeed may cede its rights and duties in relation to the CONNEXOR® Distribution Usage Agreement in full or in part to companies directly or indirectly controlled by SIX Group AG and domiciled in Switzerland.
